Leukemia Texas was awarded $30,000 to provide financial assistance to Leukemia patients in the Concho Valley. Leukemia Texas began in the 1970s and supports research as well as patient financial assistance. This organization began in North Texas and has expanded state-wide after seeing a need. They intend to provide assistance to 24 Leukemia patients in the Concho Valley.

The Children's Bed Project under the auspices of Sierra Vista United Methodist Church was awarded $25,000. The project began in 2014 at one local elementary school with the goal that every child would have their own bed to sleep in. The need was higher than anticipated causing the project to expand city-wide. Since inception they have provided 1,050 beds for children in San Angelo.

Winters Public Library was awarded $20,000 for facility upgrades. The Winters Public Library is an independent public charity that offers library services, materials and programs for the citizens of Winters and North Runnels County. Some of the programs they offer are book clubs, a computer lab, children's story time and a summer children's reading program, all offered at no cost to participants.

Nonprofit Training

Howard College Nonprofit Training Submitted by Tracy A. Simmons

In 2018, the San Angelo Health Foundation and San Angelo Area Foundation awarded $80,000 over three years for a nonprofit training initiative led by Howard College San Angelo (HCSA). The Howard College Nonprofit Training Initiative is creating and implementing quarterly training workshops for the Concho Valley's 400+ nonprofit organizations. The initiative is providing training for area nonprofit executive directors, board members, staff, and volunteers. The training workshops are focusing on key challenges and best practices for organizations providing crucial services to our community.

On October 4, 2018, HCSA held its first Nonprofit Training Initiative workshop. Workshop facilitators covered three interactive topics focusing on the Fundamentals of Fundraising. On January 15, 2019, the second workshop, Nonprofit Management Boot Camp, covered five interactive topics focusing on the roles and responsibilities of executive directors and board management. The first two workshops yielded 194 participants representing over 75 area nonprofits.

The Howard College Nonprofit Training Initiative affords area nonprofits the ability to attend local, affordable, and informative training.
